1(888) 414 - DOWN

Thanks to our retail and "online" customers we are one of the largest resources for goose down comforters, pillows and featherbeds. Consumers that compare our quality and prices to those of department stores, discounters, catalogs and other web sites find that we are indeed unbeatable - and we guarantee that! Know the facts of down before you buy.

FACT: Down comes from the chest of the bird to keep it insulated from the weather. Feathers (those things with quills) come from the back of the bird to keep it dry. Down can cost as much as $10.00 an ounce, feathers 10¢ an ounce. Over 90% of down manufacturers find it to their advantage to add over 30% feathers to their down. It's like buying three pounds of ground sirloin and getting two pounds of meat and one pound of fat. You have paid for meat and got fat, it's the same with their down, they both do it because it's legal. We do not contaminate our down by adding feathers to it.

KNOW THE FACTS BEFORE YOU BUY IT

FACT: Fill power, this is the amount the cubic inches filled by one ounce of down. Higher fill power means a higher quality down. You will find that as the quality of the down increases, so does the comfort & life of the item.

FACT: We use only high thread count, baffle box construction, 100% cotton covers on our down comforters & pillows. Down insulates by trapping air and holding in your body temperature, keeping you comfortable through the night. Low quality comforters are usually heavier because it takes more of an inferior down to fill a comforter. Inferior down becomes clumpy and it can't breath, resulting in your becoming over heated and uncomfortable. Our high quality down gives you the warmth and comfort without the weight.

FACT: In all likelihood you will have your comforter longer than the car you are now driving.

"We go the distance for you."

It's Mary Miller Day! Let's Throw Some Hot Pudding Down The Stairs!

By Dan Rattiner

Every time I go out to get tree ornaments for Christmas or a noisemaker for New Year's, or cranberry sauce for Thanksgiving, or herring in cream sauce for Chanukah, I think how bizarre it all is. Who dreamt all this stuff up? Here I am, arguing with a store owner who sold me some colored lights that blew a fuse when I plugged them in, and I am wondering, what has this got to do with anything?

"We don't sell spare fuses," the man said. "This is a special kind of fuse. You have to buy a whole new string of lights."

Why am I out here with all these other people buying all this stuff, anyway?

I remember Brighton, England. I was there once this time of year. Down on the beach, in the bitter cold, people were standing around huge bonfires they had built.

"What are the bonfires all about?" I asked.

"It's Guy Fawkes Day," a man said.

"What's that got to do with bonfires?"

"I dunno. But we light them every Guy Fawkes Day."

I also think of Mary Sanford Miller, a local housewife who lived two hundred and fifty years ago. She threw a steaming hot bucket of pudding down a flight of stairs at some British Redcoats in 1780. And it seems to me that at some point when they were deciding how to celebrate holidays, if we had turned left instead of right, we'd

This is right across from Town Pond.

Most Americans think that all the people in this country rose up and threw out the British after which we signed the Declaration of Independence. The truth is, a majority of the people living in America sided with the rebels, and a minority, called the Tories, sided with the British.

On Long Island there were a great many Tories, particularly after George Washington lost the Battle of Long Island and fled to Valley Forge for the winter.

The British military set up encampments at Southampton and Sag Harbor, and sent men on horseback around to the local residents asking them to sign a pledge of allegiance to the King. Most signed. Among those who didn't were Jeremiah and Mary Miller, who were harassed and shunned. Most of the others who were harassed and shunned fled by boat to Connecticut, which was in rebel hands. The Millers stayed.

There were tens of thousands of armed British troops on the East End. Needing to eat three meals a day, they went around in groups on Halfway up, they were met by a huge wooden pot of hot pudding, tumbling down the stairs at them. Covered with the stuff, they fled.

be lining up at department stores to buy buckets and puddings to throw down the stairs at somebody without any idea why.

Here's the story of Mary Sanford Miller.

In 1780, she was the wife of Jeremiah Miller, living in the house on the southwest corner of Main Street and Woods Lane in East Hampton.

horseback to various people's houses, and demanded meat or some soup or a live pig or some corn or whatever else there was. Who could refuse?

The story goes that the troops were trotting along the road by Town Pond one night, when they smelled a good pudding baking on a stove inside a house nearby. Dismounting, they knocked on the door. They heard footsteps going upstairs. They knocked again. And then, when nobody answered, they knocked the door down and started up the stairs. Halfway up, they were met by a huge wooden pot of hot pudding, tumbling down the stairs at them. Covered with the stuff, they fled. They never returned to bother Mary Sanford Miller again.

Two years later, with the British surrendering to the assembled army of George Washington in Virginia, the British on Long Island retreated and never returned.

Now, the way I see it, instead of arguing about a fuse in a string of colored lights, I could be arguing about a wooden pot I got at K Mart, which, I argue, had a broken slat when I bought it.

"We'll get you another, sir," the manager says.

I go home and, the next day, around noon, the wife grabs a pot full of bubbling pudding, runs upstairs, turns, and, in front of the children, throws it down at me while the children laugh hysterically. This is happening all over America.

Later that afternoon, an English commentator from the BBC is in a neighborhood, watching everybody working to clean up the big mess in their front halls, and he asks somebody about it.

"We celebrate Mary Sanford Miller," he is told. "So we throw puddings down the stairs."

"Why?"

"Dunno."

A couple of months from now we'll celebrate

Easter. Get out those Easter Egg coloring kits and head to the store to buy some chocolate marshmallow Easter Bunnies. Have fun!

The above story about the pudding never got famous, as I'm sure you know. And probably for that reason, the actual story of what happened that day has been told in numerous versions. The pudding itself is either Indian corn pudding, Montauk blueberry duff pudding or plum pudding. The woman who threw it, in most versions, is Mary Sanford Miller. But in some other versions it is Mrs. Joseph Osborn. Also, she threw it down the stairs or maybe it was down a hill. Pudding Hill in Amagansett is named after this legend.

Author Walks Through The Hampton Bays Macy's During A Lull In The Fighting

By Dan Rattiner

With just forty-eight hours to go until Christmas, I went to Macy's in Hampton Bays to do what I swore last year that I would never, ever do again. It's really easy to avoid last minute shopping. All you have to do, between Thanksgiving and, say, December 15, is count the number of people on your Christmas list, and then buy that number of presents. How hard is that?

I chose Macy's because of two considerations, both designed to minimize last minute shopping frenzy, which the economists tell us is the final push that will take the huge heap of national Christmas shopping spending patriotically over the goal line, beating last year's.

My first consideration was that Macy's had just, the day before, concluded a giant pre-Christmas sale. There was still a sale on, of course — there is always a sale — but it was a lesser sale than the giant sale. To me, this spelled lull. My second consideration was, that even though this is a fairly small Macy's it was supplied by all the giant warehouses and trucks that could bring it things every deed, few shoppers. And there were plenty of goods. But they were sort of, well, everywhere — some still on the racks, some piled haphazardly on tables, some draped over displays of other things — all goods left behind by frenzied shoppers. Now, the goods were being attended to by dozens of harried looking restock clerks, some of whom were on their knees sorting and folding, some of whom were wheeling handcarts loaded with new goods into the middle of aisles, blocking them, some of whom were leaning against counters with their hands on their foreheads, groaning.

"I'm looking for a velour robe for a woman," I said to a man trying to sort a rack where the slacks were all out of order.

"I don't know. I don't know. Ask that woman over there at the register."

"I already asked her. She asked me to ask day (or every night) so, in the last 48 hours, it wouldn't be "sold out."

I went there at ten a.m. I parked. And I went inside. I went inside and saw what looked like a Civil War battleground the day after everyone had retreated. There were, in-you."

"Well, ask her again."

I caught up with a man trying to wrestle some boxes of shirts down a corridor on a handcart and asked HIM.

"They're in there somewhere," he said, waving at some racks. "The whole thing is blocked up now. But I'll try and help you get in there."

We struggled through, hacking at the fabric jungle with our machetes through the fabric jungle, and we found them. There were nine identical velour robes, size medium large.

"There you go," he said, disappearing.

I decided on the medium large. Now, I just had to take it to a checkout counter.

At the nearest one,, there was a ray of hope. It was not the female clerk, gloomily folding and sorting a big mound of jackets. It was a very happy older man, working the register, as cheerful as could be.

I took my robe over, and stood behind the one customer he was waiting on. It couldn't be long.

"And how are you, ma'am," he said. "Wonderful day, wonderful day, isn't it? And what have you here?" He held up a men's sweatshirt with the word HUG on it.

I marveled at the cheerfulness of this man. He had a glorious personality and he reminded me of the NBC weatherman Willard Scott, who, at the end of one of his reports, said that there was a woman in Paramus, New Jersey who was a hundred and one years old today and 'Happy Birthday to you, darlin'. He smiled. He turned. I noticed he had a lipstick kiss mark on his right cheek. Apparently earned.

But then the clerk came upon a garment that had no price tag on it. It was going to present a problem. There would be a delay. He'd make a call.

I saw another checkout counter open. Three checkout clerks were there, side by side. So I went over and put the robe on their counter.

Without even a smile, two of the clerks began to ring me up. And then the third clerk, a lad who could not have been more than twenty, burst into song while he was folding garments. He bobbed his head from side to side as he worked.

"Tis the season to be jolly, fa la la la..."

The clerks checking me out stopped and glared at him. In mid "fa," he stopped singing. It had been an accident. He went back to his folding.

I took my purchase out to the car. And I thought briefly of these two shining lights inside Macy's, still cheerful in spite of it all.

* * *

Driving home, I came upon a toy store and pulled in and stopped. What was Christmas about anyway? I would conduct a test.

I bought two battery-driven six-inch long monster cars with oversized wheels. One was a green '57 Chevy. The other was a yellow pickup truck. I had them gift-wrapped.

That night, I was having dinner at home with my two sons, both college boys.

"Christmas is tomorrow," I told them. "But I have a special pre-Christmas present for each of you."

They sat forward in their chairs.

"It's also Chanukah, which sometimes we celebrate and sometimes we forget to celebrate. This year I thought, for just this one day, we would celebrate it like we did when you were little, and I would give you each a gift."

I plopped our menorah on the kitchen table and took out some candles. We are not very religious.

"I don't know what day it is. The fifth day? Here. We'll put in five candles."

I loaded it up. Lit the candles. Said a quick prayer in Hebrew. Then, I took out the two gift boxes and set them in front of them.

They sat there stunned for a moment. But then they opened up the gifts. What had dad thought to get them? Toy cars. Like they got when they were seven years old.

"They take AA batteries," I said. I reached in my pocket, took two packs out and thumped them on the table. "Give them a try."

Both boys, without hesitation, took the monster cars out of their plastic cases. They put the batteries in. One of them wanted the one the other had. But no, there was no deal. They got down on the floor and each ran what they had been given across the room.

They had each been given a GIFT. From their dad, especially for them. They would play with, take care of and put away these cars when they were done.

The Chevy went under a table. But as the pickup rumbled across the kitchen, into the room came the dog, growling and barking, his claws slipping on the linoleum as he turned to chase it until it disappeared under the stove.

Twenty year olds and toy cars? Don't tell their friends.

Night View with the Statue of Liberty (Freedom Tower)

Tallest

If They Don't Consider The New Freedom Tower 1,776 Feet, How About 1,492?

By Dan Rattiner

On Friday, December 19, Governor Pataki unveiled the final plan for the "Freedom Tower" at the World Trade Center. It will be a 1100-foot tall enclosed building, topped with a 400-foot tall pyramid-shaped glass and steel cap. Its total height, therefore, will be 1,500 feet. A communications needle atop it will rise another 276 feet making it a symbolic 1,776.

The design went through many changes before assuming its final shape.

In Daniel Libeskind's original plan, the tower soared an actual 1776 feet into the sky. Two-thirds of it was a commercial building, and the top one-third was an enclosed, indoor glass and steel garden featuring a constantly changing nightly display of patriotic video images, visible from the ground. It would easily have been the tallest building in the world. It was a great design.

Soon, however, the leaseholder of the property, Larry Silverstein, hired what some considered a less gifted architect to take over the project, David M. Childs. Childs produced something that looked like a twisted Mayflower Moving Van on its nose with a shark cage on the top. Libeskind and many critics were amazed at this, and since Libeskind was still in the picture as the overseeing architect, arguments ensued. There was even a Libeskind raid on Childs' offices for some papers that were not forthcoming. And now, finally, we have THIS.

It's pretty good. For one thing, through it all, there has remained intact what I call "the helmet on a stick above a boulder" approach to the building's design. About two-thirds of the general public has indicated in a poll that it would not work in the top third of a building that rose to a stratospheric height on the site of the World Trade Center. Thus, the helmet on the stick theory. Shoot at this. Hit it, even. Ha ha.

But then there is the idea that, because the you can put up and take down a needle. We can't be allowing needle wars now, can we?) The final design of the Freedom Tower, by this standard, does not make it. It is 1,500 feet. The Taipei 101 Tower in Taiwan, at 1,667 feet, recently unseated the Petronas Towers in Malaysia for the title of tallest building in the world. The soon to be finished Shanghai World Financial Center will come in at #3. The new Freedom Tower will rank maybe fifth when it is completed.

The lower official height of the Freedom Tower does make me wonder, though, why they didn't decide to make it 1,492 feet. The Declaration of Independence is one thing, but Columbus discovering America is just as important, it seems to me.

The thing is, they can STILL make it match the year that Columbus discovered America. It's in the details. When they get to the part where they decide where all the windows and doors go on this building, they could make the grand entrance on the second level, eight feet up. Shove eight feet worth of dirt against the building to raise the grade. And the bottom level becomes a basement, with window wells to let in the light. To enter the building, you walk up the marble steps. Voila, 1,492 feet.

(By the way, I did check to see what was going on in America in 1500. Not much.)

I guess all this will be okay. Except for the needle on top, which, in my plan, would have to be 284 feet high instead of 276 feet high, to make up for the eight feet, and to get to 1776.

If the change screws up TV reception, well, I'm sorry about that. They'll just have to deal with that when they come to it. They've worked it out pretty good so far.

Night View of Model from South

original World Trade Center was built as the tallest building in the world, the Freedom Tower, with its glass and steel cap on the top, should claim that title too. (Caps are included in height count. Needles on top of that are not. After all,

Authors Writing About The Hamptons

Ann Rower has always lived, worked and written in and around New York City. She is the author of a collection of stories, If You're A Girl, and a novel, Armed Response, published by Serpent's Tail. The following chapter is an excerpt from her book, Lee and Elaine.

Lee & Elaine

By Ann Rower

Artists and Writers

I learned that Bill and Elaine came out to the Hamptons later than Lee and Jackson did. They rented that red house in Bridgehampton, with Kline. Then Elaine and Bill separated. I wondered if Lee and Jackson would've split if he hadn't died, if she was already splitting that summer he did, when she went away, when she painted that black painting, and went to France. Maybe she knew he was leaving her for that girl, Ruth Kligman. Everyone says Ruth looked like Liz Taylor. Jackson had her stashed in Sag Harbor; Lee's friends didn't tell her till later. Her painting was called "Prophecy."

Bill was living right across from the cemetery with Joan Ward, in a house that had been his brother's. She got pregnant and they had Lisa. Elaine didn't like that. She went away. Then Willem built his studio on Woodbine, and Elaine had her own on Alewives Brook Road. Later Elaine came back to cure his drinking. She succeeded. Lee must've felt she couldn't do that for Jackson. There wasn't time. When Jackson was killed, Lee moved into his studio right away. It was so much bigger. Then later, she moved back to the city, and the studio and house on Springs-Fireplace Road became the Pollock-Krasner House and Study Center.

Sometimes I wonder who I identify with. I get the feeling I'm more like Lee. That I could never be like Elaine — a beautiful floating social butterfly. A butterfly who drank. I love that they're both from Brooklyn. I've always had a thing for Brooklyn. Even during those windows when it's unpopular, I still wish I was born there. Not like some people, people who even lie about being from Brooklyn. My first husband came from Sheepshead Bay. He went to Midwood High School but said he was born in Dallas and was descended from Cardinal Newman. He pronounced it two words. New Man.

Elaine was born in Sheepshead Bay, too. She went to Erasmus. Real New York babes. Lee went to high-school in the city, Washington Irving, though she was born in Brooklyn, too. Her real name was Lena Krassner. But she'd taken out one "s" and changed Lena to Leonore by the time she graduated. She had different pretensions. Maybe because she was ten years older, born October 27, 1908, and so closer to immigrant Jews who tried to assimilate. When Stella asked me if Elaine was Jewish I didn't think so. Why do people ask this question? Why do I even wonder? I don't care. Maybe I'm assimilating some of the anti-Semitism of the period. Then when I found out it was Elaine Marie Catherine Fried, I thought Catholic? German Protestant? She was born on March 12, 1918. Pisces, for sure.

Lee went to Cooper, but to something called the Women's Art School of Cooper Union. Then she went to the Art Students League, then the National Academy of Design, then Greenwich House. Solid credentials. She became Burgoyne Diller's assistant, head of the WPA murals project, which grabbed me, because when I was little my parents used to talk nostalgically about the days of FDR and the WPA. Lee started work on a WPA Abstract Mural Project for NYC. Then her part got cancelled. No funding. Even when the WPA was still getting money, they cut her part. Probably because they were women. Or Abstract.

Then, in 1942, Lee met Jackson. It was a gallery show. Maybe they were both in it. They were married at Marble Collegiate Church, so she couldn't have been that Jewish. No one was Jewish in those days, especially Jews.

Elaine's background makes her seem less academically ambitious, a little more eccentric, eclectic, electric, more colorful, from an art point of view. But she did go to Hunter, then something called the Leonardo DaVinci Art School. She was going with Milton Resnick, a painter, fairly famous. I'd heard of him. But it was love at first sight with de Kooning, and they got married in 1943. In 1947 they went to teach at Black Mountain College together when

Parmalat, Slightly Annoyed Cow's Disease And The Kaypro Computer Company

By Dan Rattiner

Yesterday morning at breakfast, I looked at the milk carton on the table and a drawing of a cow stared back at me. Was it a mad cow? It was not. It looked more like a mildly annoyed cow. Below it was the name of the manufacturer: Parmalat. I poured it over my Grape Nuts.

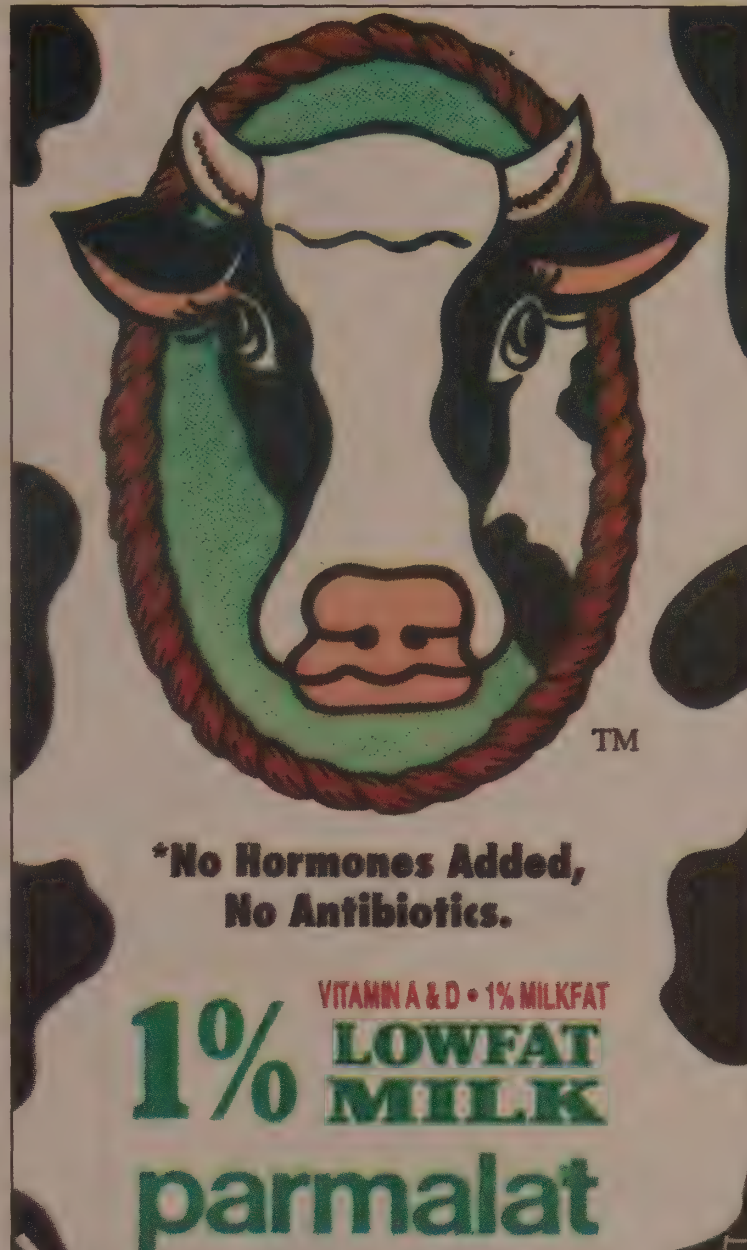

Did you know that in Canada, where this cow with the Mad Cow disease apparently staggered down from before winding up in Oregon, the incidence of beef eating has actually increased? Seven countries have so far banned American beef exports because of this one cow. Billions of dollars worth of beef are not being sold, because people are turning to fish and chicken for fear of contracting Mad Cow disease, or its less lethal version, Mildly Annoyed Cow disease. The fact is, whenever Mad Cow disease turns up, the people in the country where they find it stop eating beef almost immediately. But in Canada, the beef consumption rises.

"Eh?" a Canadian told a reporter about this phenomenon. "Canadian cows are in the news. I read about it. They did something."

And Parmalat is in the news. What is Parmalat doing in my refrigerator anyway? I thought it was some obscure kind of fake milk made out of rice for vegetarians. Not so. It's right there in Southampton in the A & P refrigeration section now, a milk exactly like North Sea Farms Milk or Sealtest Milk or any other local fare. It's real milk, and it's being marketed now by what was this obscure brand, until somebody thought to put it in with the other milks in the supermarket refrigerator case.

What a brilliant idea. Now, consumers think of Parmalat just like it is regular milk. "Maybe Parmalat is making milk now. Bet it comes from better cows. Let's get Parmalat," they think.

The company has thrived. From its world headquarters in Milan, it has bought up dozens of smaller food companies all over the world, including such companies as Archway cookies, Parkay, Welsh Farms, Skim-Plus and Beatrice Foods here in America. Its assets total $4 billion dollars and it is one of the top 20 publicly-traded companies in Italy. It employs 30,000 people worldwide. Its major asset, frankly, was supposed to be $3 billion dollars tucked safely away in a Bank of America account in the Cayman Islands. There's nothing like cash. Parmalat's auditor, the firm Grant Thornton, displayed the bank form, filled out and signed by a bank officer, confirming the existence of this account with that amount of money in it.

Had they called the bank? No, they never called the bank.

Somewhere in Milan, last spring, at World Parmalat Headquarters, a clerk was told, by one of the members of the Tanzi family that founded Parmalat, to download a blank bank asset form from Bank of America, fill it out to show $2.9 billion in their Cayman Islands

Branch — bad idea to make it an even amount — drop it down $100 million — forge the name of the Cayman Islands bank Vice President whose identity could be found on the Internet, and then make lots of copies of it.

The clerk did this.

"Good job," the Tanzi man said. "Now go out and have lunch. It's on me."

Among other things that happened after a Bank of America official checked up on this — who keeps a bank account with $3 billion in it? — and announced it was not real, was that all hell broke loose in the European financial world. Calisto Tanzi, the patriarch of the Tanzi clan, has been arrested, and various other Parmalat frauds have been discovered — the discrepancy may be as much as $11 billion. The Italian legislature scurried around to make quick changes in Italian bankruptcy laws before Parmalat, on its deathbed, could collapse into its arms, which, two weeks ago, it did. Parmalat stock is now worthless.

I took a bite of my Grape Nuts. Years ago, I heard a wonderful story about a computer company called Kaypro, which came upon hard times. The IRS closed in. Kaypro, a California company, had listed on their balance sheet millions and millions of dollars worth of inventory, portable computers, which they had built and paid for and which were waiting to be sold. Let us see them, the IRS said.

Kaypro officials took the men from the IRS out to a big field off US 1 at the top of a cliff overlooking the Pacific Ocean. Four huge, white tents had been erected there, and guards stood by the entrances. Kaypro said the computers were inside. And they opened the flap of one of the tents so the IRS could see.

Oh my gosh, a Kaypro executive said in astonishment, the computers are GONE! We've been robbed!

I crunched a bite of my cereal. These aren't really "grape nuts." Some grapes do have seeds in them, but they do not have nuts. There's no such thing as grape nuts. And what I am eating has never been near a grape.

Who does Post know at the Agriculture Department that lets them get away with calling their cereal Grape Nuts?

The Sheltered Islander By Sally Flynn

Observations of an Islander #280

"It's like I always say. If it's not one thing, it's your mother." Rosanne Rosanadana

As a special holiday treat, my ex sent me a box of six gourmet Maryland crabcakes. They arrived in a pressed foam box, packed with dry ice cubes. My son was amused for hours putting one ice cube after another in a cup of water and watching it smoke. I told my ex to skip toys, just send the kid dry ice.

I put my box of six gourmet Maryland crabcakes in my freezer behind a bag of frozen peas. My son and daughter hate seafood, which makes me think they were switched at birth and my real children are in Arizona somewhere living on canned clams. I hid the crabcakes because SHE might come.... SHE who can sniff out a crabcake in the dark, upside down and under water....Mother.

Mother came to visit the very next day. I'm surprised it took her that long. Naturally, she thought we could have 'a nice lunch together'. Oh sure... she probably had one of those 'intuitive feelings' she gets that I need a visit. But she didn't fool me, she was like a shark following a blood trail.

I popped open my cabinets and began running down the list of possible lunches. "We got tuna helper, I can make creamed salmon on toast, we got scalloped potatoes, I can add some sliced ham..." My whole body then seized as I heard the sound of my freezer pop open.

"What have you got in here?" She asked casually as if she didn't know. Before I could intervene and assure her there was nothing much in the freezer, she slammed the frozen peas aside and in mock surprise yelled, "You got crabcakes!?"

"Yea Mom. My ex sent them."

"I love Maryland crabcakes! Oh boy, what a treat! We can fry up a couple each. This and a salad is all we need." Sure Mom, I thought, just burn up four of my six crabcakes on one lunch. They didn't cost me anything. You got a husband and a grown up son living with you, taking care of you, buying you treats. I'm all alone with two teenagers. Two teenagers, and six, no, two crabcakes.

"Okay Mom, that sounds great," I said. I had to play along if I wanted to save any crabcakes at all.

"Joey loves crabcakes. I wish I could take one home for him."

Sure.... here we go. The old I'll-just-take-one-home-for-Joey ploy. Like my brother can't get his own ex-husband and crabcakes. Plus, he's a chef, he can make crabcakes in his sleep. This woman would sink to any level, use any excuse to depart me from my crabs.

She scarfed down two golden fried crabcakes like they were slices of pizza. I ate slowly, savoring every bite. I found them very rich, so I only ate one. I thought I could wrap up the other one quickly and slip it into the fridge behind the leftover lentil soup, under the soft celery and blocked by anything else I could quickly shift to hide the plate.

"Oh, you can't eat that one? Let me take that one home for Joey."

"Okay Mom," I acquiesced. Like my brother would ever see that crabcake. I knew she was going to go home and hide this in her fridge for herself later. Or worse, she'd give bites of it to her three worthless Persian cats. Half the population on this planet does not live as well as my mother's cats.

"What have you got for a dessert? I'll make coffee," she said in an effort to distract me. Like a magician distracting the audience, she bagged and slipped the crabcake in her purse.

I stood in front of my cabinets again, running down the list of possible desserts. "I got canned peaches, Oreos, applesauce..."

"Oh, what's in this box under the tree? It says Zabar's on the side.... is this from Sachs in the City?" Sachs in the City is my name for my dear friend Jay Sachs in Manhattan.

"Yeah, Jay sent me something. I'm sure it's a music box or something," I said keeping my voiced calm and flat. I had completely forgotten about the box from Jay. I was busted. Whatever it was, I was keeping it for Christmas. She tore the box open with her teeth....

"Rugela?! You got rugela? I love rugela! It's not too sweet.... I love the cinnamon. You know who loves rugela?"

"Joey?"

"Joey loves rugela! I'm not sure if he ever had it, but he'll love it."

"Would you like to take a few home for him?"

"No, I shouldn't take your rugela. But actually there's a lot in this tin. I'll just take six, two for each of us."

"Sure Mom." Sure, take them.. take it all...just leave me the tin, I'll lick out the cinnamon crumbs. I'll do that after I have my last crabcake. But don't worry about me. I'll be fine. I eat gourmet all the time.

Well, at least I have two crabcakes left. I figure I'll have one on New Year's Day, the other I'm keeping in my car for emergency. If I'm ever in an accident and want to make sure I'm found, I'll just unwrap the crabcake and slap it on my forehead. Mother should pick up the scent in about an hour...

Bucky Fuller, the Geodesic Dome guy was there.

My favorite Elaine bit is this: there's a big Hamptons event called "Artists and Writers Softball Game." Now they write it up in the East Hampton Star as a big social thing, more than an athletic event. But I didn't know they had the Artists and Writers game back then. I don't know if it was called that yet. And this is the great part: everyone always wanted Elaine to be on their team. Why? Because she was such a heavy hitter.

Now you see why I'd have to identify with Lee.

We move so many pianos we could give lessons.

In fact we do. The professionals from Despatch Moving and Storage that pad, pack, load, drive, and unload your possessions have received hours and hours of training long before we let them touch any of your belongings, let alone your Baby.

Despatch began moving people in 1910. Even then they realized the key to successful moves wasn't just strong backs and powerful trucks. It was heart. Caring about the people they were moving and the things that made their house a home were more important.

Today, the thank you letters we receive from our clients are music to our ears. Many of the words used strike a familiar chord — careful, friendly, understanding, professional, courteous, and efficient. We're not surprised. Moving pianos is not our only forte. Our staff knows how to baby your antiques, collectibles, fine art, furniture, as well as your floors and walls. In short, if you're planning a move call us — but only if you want to be babied in grand style.

TREE OF LIFE GALA

The Jewish National Fund Tree of Life Gala was held at The Marriott Marquis in NYC. Honored this year were Tovah Feldshuh, the star of Golda's Balcony, and Director Jerry Zaks, whose revival of Little Shop Of Horrors just opened on Broadway to rave reviews (including mine). A cavalcade of stars paid tribute to this year's honorees, including Nathan Lane (who has a summer home in East Hampton), Richard Dreyfuss, Kristin Chenoweth (Wicked), Douglas Sills (Little Shop of Horrors) and was hosted by Lewis J. Stadlen (The Producers). Funds raised will go towards establishing and improving vital water projects in Israel and surrounding lands plagued by severe drought. Previous Tree of Life honorees are Al Gore, Donald Trump, Mort Zuckerman, Stewart Lane and his beautiful wife, Bonnie Comley.

1. Tovah Feldshuh, Dr. Ruth Westheimer, Richard Dreyfuss 2. Douglas Sills (Little Shop of Horrors), Randie Levine-Miller of Southampton 3. Kristin Chenoweth (Wicked), Producer Jerry Zaks 4. East Hampton's Bonnie Comley and Stuart F. Lane (Producer, Fiddler on The Roof, Gypsy, Millie) 5. Nathan Lane 6. Toby Schneier, Tovah Feldshuh, Rabbi Marc Schneier 7. Karen Ziemba (Never Gonna Dance) 8. Julie Ratner, Lilian Feldshuh, Patti Kenner 9. Mimi Levine "Happy Birthday!", Kristin Chenoweth (Wicked) 10. Joan Allen

Dan's North Fork

North Fork Critics' Choice 2003 The "Best Of The Best" Of Our Dining Destinations

And The Winner Is...

I think it is safe to say that Dan's Papers annual Best of the Best contest has indeed achieved institutional status on the East End, and while we all know it's not who wins or loses, it's still a lot more fun to win. And speaking of winners, this year's lucky award recipients are spotlighted below. Just look for the designation at the end of each restaurant description, and follow the key to find out who won what. The list is impressive, but then so are today's dining options here on the North Fork.

—Susan W. Simm, Dan's North Fork Editor

2003 North Fork Best of the Best Winners

A-Ambiance, Ap-Appetizers, B-Bistro, Br-Brunch, C-Chef, Ch-Chicken Dish, Co-Comfort Food, Cou-Courtyard Dining, Cr-Crepes, Cu-Cuisine, D-Décor, Di-Dinner Specials, E-Entrée Accompaniments, F-Fish Dish, I-Italian Cuisine, L-Lobster Dish, Lo-Long Island Wine Selection, Lu-Lunch Menu, M-Martinis, Me-Mediterranean Cuisine, Mu-Mussels, O-Outdoor Dining, N-New Chef, P-Pasta, Pu-Pub, S-Salad, Se-Seafood Restaurant, Ser-Service, Sh-Shellfish Dish, So-Soft-Shell Crabs, Sou-Soup, Sp-Special Dinners, Spe-Special Occasion Dining, St-Steak, Su-Sushi, T-Take Out, Tu-Tuna Appetizer, V-Vegetarian Dish, W-Wine List, Wi-Wines by the Glass.

Bayview Inn & Restaurant. Culinary fireworks from a new sparkler facing Peconic Bay. The historic Bayview has undergone many identity changes since its inception as an 1860's boutique hotel. Owners Bob and Pat Patchell have restored its original spirit, with seven guestrooms and the North Fork's most exciting new dining room. Thomas Lopez creates separate specials menus, complementing his regular card of winners like spinach pasta with chunky lobster, Asian-style breast of duck, and marinated lamb chops in mint demi-glace. Scrumptious desserts and a kid's menu ensure everyone goes home (or upstairs) happy. South Jamesport Ave. and Front Street, South Jamesport. 722-2659. Entrees, $18-$26. (Trueman-Honey, 8/1/03). (Di,S,Sh)

Cooperage Inn. With a beautiful new look emphasizing the cooperage theme, this charmer continues to carry the banner of North Fork cuisine. Chef/owner Jonathan Perkins, along with chefs Laimo and Hegeman, produce inspired appetizers such as rare sesame tuna carpaccio and pan-seared fresh mozzarella, and don't miss the sesame crusted calamari served over field greens with a soy vinaigrette. Steaks are steakhouse worthy, and the rigatoni ala vodka continues to dazzle. Fish here is always pristine and cooked with a light hand. Entrees $15.50-$30. 2218 Sound Ave. Baiting Hollow. 727-8994. (Simm, 1/10/03). (Br,D)

Do Little's. Very welcoming and unpretentious. An excellent menu for diners interested in fresh, smartly prepared dishes that are not calorically trumped up. Thai mussels in ginger/lemongrass broth hit the mark. Excellent pasta dishes, headlined by justifiably famous Seafood Pasta in white wine sauce, filled with mussels, clams and shrimp over linguine with fresh tomatoes and spinach. Stuffed ravioli with sun-dried tomatoes and mozzarella is beautifully done. Sensibly priced wine list, with a knowing nod to local vintages. Entrees, $12.95-$19.95. Rt. 25, Mattituck Plaza, Mattituck. 298-4000. (Bradbrook, 7/28/01). (F, Mu)

Desmond's Pub & Restaurant at the Inn at East Wind. The North Fork's new destination hotel hosts an elegant and restful dining room serving excellent a la carte dishes and classic pub fare. Executive chef Richard Laurelli's daily specials are consistent standouts, as evidenced by his chilled vegetable soup with lobster meat, as well as the Andalusia-style beef and chicken tapas. Pub favorites like crisply battered cod and chips hit the mark and familiar entrees like grilled lamb chops are perfectly prepared. The wine list is sensibly priced, though short on local vintages. Blueberry creme brulee was an inventive and winning update on a classic dessert. Entrees, $16-$26. 5720 Rt. 25A, Wading River. 929-3500. (Bradbrook, 8/29/03). (Pu)

Fauna. A hip and elegant culinary gem. Co-owner and consulting chef Mark Mittelman's menu astutely incorporates Asian influences into superbly conceived New American dishes. Tuna sashimi shines as an appetizer, as does duck confit atop sautéed spinach with walnuts and dried cranberries. Try and find room for the butternut squash pot stickers. The all-star cast of entrees includes Southeast Asian steak salad, pan-roasted bourbon chicken and a Napoleon of roasted vegetables. Desserts rotate daily. Extensive wine list with sixteen local vineyards. Entrees $20-$26. Route 25, Aquebogue. 722-5813. (Trueman-Honey, 6/7/02). (Ap,M,Sp,Tu)

The inviting bar at Desmond's Pub

Ile de Beaute. In a beautiful old house with courtyard tables, the spirit of Provence is alive in Greenport with highly authentic French cuisine. Its treatment of classics like escargots, French onion soup, and frogs' legs runs the gamut from superb to extraordinary. Rack of lamb, served with rosemary sauce reduction, is masterly. Desserts are tasty and the crepe options are best expressed in exponential notation. Service is deliberate but attentive. Entrees $24-35. 314 Main Street,

Greenport. (Bradbrook, 7/12/02). (Cou,Cr,E)

La Cuvée Wine Bar & Bistro at the Greenporter Hotel. Gourmet bistro dining adjoining a hip boutique hotel footsteps from Greenport's vibrant downtown. The casually upscale dining room creates a pleasing environment for a light and adventurous menu. Seafood appetizers like tuna tartar and the sublime mussels in coconut and lemongrass broth bear an unmistakable Asian influence. But executive chef/owner Deborah Rivera's culinary artistry really announces itself when the entrees arrive. Long Island duck in an orange-infused coconut sauce is impressive enough, but topped by her otherworldly Chilean Sea Bass poached in a miso-sesame broth. Exceptional wine list, with by-the-glass offering many pleasant surprises. Entrees, $21-$26. 326 Front Street, Greenport. 477-0066. (Bradbrook, 4/25/03). (B,Wi)

La Plage. Exciting and imaginative haute cuisine just steps away from a Long Island Sound beach. Chef/owner Wayne Wadington's menu undergoes constant revision, reflecting his selection of premium ingredients or his latest inspiration for a sauce. His creations fly off the menu almost as quickly as off the plate, but if you have the chance, put in for the Yukon Gold potato soup with an oyster beignet, the roulade of local crab with succulent micro greens or the Griggstown Farm quail in smoked bacon. Superb wine list. Exceptional desserts. Entrees $22-33. 131 Creek Road, Wading River. 744-9200. (Bradbrook, 11/1/02). (Ap,Ch)

Modern Snack Bar. Home-cooked meals away from home await you at this charming family-run restaurant operating since 1950. Wittmeier brothers' time-honored menu contains dishes too good to go out of style. Delectable sauerbraten is perfectly tender and the stuffed cabbage very good. Duck breast salad, recently introduced, is another winner. Crab cakes and lobster salad are real treats, but the big surprise is the world-class shrimp and crabmeat quiche. Home-baked desserts are splendid and their take-out pie business is brisk. Wines are mostly limited to local vintages. Reservations not needed, but day or night, it's always a crowded house. Entrees, $9-$17. Rt. 25 Aquebogue. 722-3655. (Bradbrook, 10/14/02). [Co,So]

Red Door. Red Alert! Stephan Mazzella, formerly of Lespinasse, has opened a fine new restaurant in Mattituck. His menu is quite versatile and his consistently tasty dishes excite the palate. Typically adventurous and successful is the pan-seared monkfish with a yellow tomato sauce and black olive purée topped by crispy fried leeks. Mazzella's treatment of fish epitomizes Greek and Italian-style preparation at its best. The appetizer of heirloom tomatoes with bocconcini mozzarella and fresh basil and balsamic vinegar is a tomato dish for the ages. Innovative desserts, too. Entrees - $16-$28. 13560 Main Rd., Mattituck. 298-4800. (Bradbrook, 6/14/02). [D]

Ross' Rotisserie and Smokehouse. A casual, homey eat-in or take-out spot opened by John Ross, former chef/owner of Ross' North Fork Restaurant. Great rotisserie and crispy fried chicken; marinated, honey-glazed duck legs; hickory-smoked spareribs; homemade soups and chowders; many cooked-from-scratch side dishes. Every Friday fish fry is an excellent value. A special 6-pound LI duck, cooked crisp, boned and quartered, accompanied by duck sauce and a garnish of apricots and cranberries ($19.99) is available by reservation the day before. Open 7 days 12-8. Route 48, Southold, 765-9655. (Simm, 10/5/01). [So,T]

The Seafood Barge. The North Fork restaurant for fish lovers. Owner/manager team of Dick Ehrlich and Betsey Flinn are as fanatical about results as Steinbrenner/Torre. Newly imported executive chef Michael Meehan updates the menu's MUSIKGARTEN CLASSES - For children at East End Community School of the Arts. Separate sessions offered for ages 18 months-3 years, ages 3-4 and ages 7-8. From 6 to 8 p.m. Call 369-2171 for more information.

GALLERIES/ ART EXHIBITS

EAST END ARTS COUNCIL - Reminiscence show will run from January 9 to February 7. Guest Juror: Arlene Bujese of East Hampton's Bujese Gallery. Project Room: Naomi Grossman. Artists talk at 6:30 p.m. Located at 133 East Main Street, Riverhead. Gallery Hours: Monday - Saturday 10-4. Call 727-0900.

COREY CREEK VINEYARDS - The show entitled "East End/136 Views from Orient to Manhattan" features 6x6 photographs depicting landscapes views. A reception will be held on Saturday, February 14 from 3-5 p.m. Corey Creek and Bedell Cellars wines will be served along with cheese. Display will run through February 29. Located at 45470 Main Road in Southold. Call 765-4168.

ONGOING EVENTS

WINTER WINE FESTIVAL AT BEDELL CELLARS - Bedell Cellars will be featuring one of their very special vintages each week in the month of January in their Cutchogue tasting room. These vintages are either not currently in standards and introduces several of his own specialties. Vichyssoise spiked with crab meat and basil oil was a rousing success. Marinated baby octopus with baby spinach was succulent and tender. As for the fish, the sushi appetizer continues to be stellar. The pan-seared striped bass with a red pepper broth is a revelation. Desserts are sensational. Excellent wine list, particularly local vintages. Entrees $24-$32. Port of Egypt Marina, Rt. 25, Southold. 765-3010. (Bradbrook, 7/26/02). [Lo,Se,Su]

The Shady Lady Restaurant. The Zorn family's vision of stately elegance comes to the North Fork in this grandly unique dining room. Two rooms actually, with dinner jackets de rigueur in the Scarlet Room and a more casual ambience pervading the lodge-like Pine Room. The menu keeps apace with the opulence of the surroundings. Chef Ross Essner's cosmopolitan cooking style is globally savvy, but local-ingredient particular. Especially breathtaking is the lobster risotto with diver scallop and asparagus. A superb cheese plate complements the dessert choices and the wines are as excellently-chosen as they are reasonably-priced. 305 North Road, Greenport. 477-4500. Entrees, $28-$38. (Bradbrook, 7/18/03). [A,Cu,Ser,Spe,W]

Stonewall's. Haute cuisine in a tranquil setting, at the Woods Course at Cherry Creek in Riverhead. Step into the warm and inviting dining room, however, and your thoughts will happily shift from golf course to main course. Many superb entrees, including the delicate halibut in a mustard-nut crust, are worth savoring long after the meal has concluded. Duck a l'orange on a bed of wild rice is another standout as is the deeply flavorful lobster bisque. Rigatoni with roasted tomatoes, mozzarella, capers and olives is exquisitely al dente. Fine wines and creatively fruity desserts complete a dining experience par excellence. Entrees $15-$27. 967 Reeves Ave., Riverhead. 506-0777. (Bradbrook, 9/12/03). [Lu,N]

Sultan's Kitchen. At last, a good, authentic Eastern release or of such limited quantity that they are not normally opened for tasting. The schedule and featured wines are as follows: Week of January 12 - Bedell Cellars 2000 Cupola (not yet released). Week of January 19 - Bedell Cellars 1997 Cabernet Sauvignon. Week of January 26 - Bedell Cellars 2000 C-Block South Merlot (not yet released). These wines will be poured in the tasting room for tastings and will be sold during the designated weeks only in the tasting room. Call 734-7537.

RAILROAD MUSEUM OF LONG ISLAND - at 416 Griffing Ave., Riverhead, is open Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Greenport location is closed for the season. 727-7920.

GREENPORT CAROUSEL in Mitchell Park is open Saturday and Sunday, 11 a.m.-5 p.m., for the winter.

Dawn to dusk-Walk the trails at North Fork Audubon Society's nature center, 65275 Route 48, Greenport. 477-2368. Nature center (red house) open Saturdays and Sundays, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

CUSTER INSTITUTE - in Southold is open Saturday evenings at dusk for observing the night sky, weather permitting. 765-2626.

UPCOMING EVENTS

RIVERHEAD LIBRARY - Local author and Riverhead resident Thomas Caulfield will be offering a workshop titled ESP and Beyond from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Participants are invited to join in learning how to read minds, master the art of foretelling the future, and determine who their reincarnation selves are. January 30 and February 6. There is no fee for the workshops and reservations are not required. Call 727-3228 for more information.

Mediterranean for the region. The emphasis is on Turkish cooking, one of the world's healthiest cuisines. The spacious dining room is non-descript, as this is a former pancake emporium; the subtleties are all in the flavoring of the food. Soups such as red lentil and tripe are spiced just right. The varied appetizers favor vegetarians while the main courses concentrate on lamb and chicken, often with delectable results. Turkish baklava and kadayif are exceptional finishing touches. Entrees $6.50-$15.95. 1077 Old Country Road, Riverhead. 369-9766. (Bradbrook, 8/9/02). [Me,V]

Touch of Venice. Top-notch Italian cuisine in a delightful setting on Mattituck Inlet. Named appropriately for location, cuisine and a large mural dominating the dining room, this is family dining par excellence with a sophisticated ambience. Among the kitchen's highlights: Orient Point oysters, chilled but not icy; baby spinach salad with gorgonzola; black angus porterhouse. Manicotti in a fresh, simple tomato sauce is among the many pleasing pasta dishes. Lobster Meat over angel hair pasta, a frequent special, is an exciting dish of imaginative complexity and one of the North Fork's perennial favorites. Cold seafood bruschetta is another special to watch for. Entrees $16-$34. Wickham Avenue at Matt-A-Mar Marina, Mattituck. 298-5851. (Bradbrook, 8/16/02). [L,O]

Tuscan House. Your table is yours for the evening at this elegant, upscale Italian. Authentic, classical dishes bear the deft touch of chef William Oster. His fish is exceptionally fresh and his osso bucco masterly. But his virtuosity lies in the care with which he pairs his 16 pastas and his sublime sauces. The results range from delicate to intense. Pappardelle with a puree of beans dressed with soppressata, fresh chilies, garlic and parmigiano reggiano is typically adventurous and winning. The dessert tray is filled with excellent choices. Well-chosen wines, emphasis on regional Italians. 673 Osborn Ave., Riverhead. 727-2330. (Bradbrook, 9/7/01). [C,I,P]

Tweed's. Owner Ed Tuccio parlayed his interests in history, Americana and the bison to create this unique eatery. The décor puts one in mind of an expensive turn-of-the-century men's club, but with a romantic twist. Notable appetizers include Oysters Portland, enveloped in sautéed leeks and crisp bacon, and the Bistro Salad, redolent of blue cheese and roasted beets. Aside from Tweed's excellent specialty of the house, succulent farm-raised bison, also recommended are the Sashimi Sesame Tuna, carb-free vegetable lasagna, and Duck Two Ways. Don't skip dessert: the pastry chef is a graduate of the Cordon Bleu in London. Entrees $19-26. 17 E. Main St., Riverhead. 208-3151. (Trueman-Honey, 7/04/03). [St].

When In Manhattan...

Watching People, Who Watch "Sex" on TV

Candace Bushnell couldn't have anticipated the whirlwind that would follow the release of her book Sex and the City. It became a hit show on HBO, and subsequently: cosmopolitans are more hip than they ought to be, women proudly sleep around, Manolo Blahnik is nearly a household name, and Candace sold more books. Sex and the City is a good show, so what could be more fun than celebrating its final season with... a sightseeing tour? Probably many things, but if you're a rabid fan or you've never seen much of Manhattan, even though you live just 100 miles away, you might enjoy it. Imagine the possibilities. The "woman about town" can ride the luxury coach from Carrie's apartment stoop (where they can actually sit where she sits!), to the furniture shop where her lost beau, Aidan, designs furniture (forget the fact that Aidan is pretty much over on the show and the last time he appeared he had an emasculating baby pouch strapped to his chest, and an all-denim outfit.)

More likely, the idea of any sightseeing tour is appalling, but I propose a new way of looking at it - watch the people that are on the tour. The women that come from other states to see this stuff will be entertainment enough. They will gossip about the fake people on the show, they will assume a role as their favorite character, and smoke Marlboro

Lights while they take in the "vibe." All this while wearing the "scrunchy" that has been blatantly ridiculed by the very girls they're trying to be. If you're a single guy, this tour is a gold mine for scorscenes-scoop you'll hear. Or if you're one of the super-fans, plenty of moments you can enjoy while people watch you.

The tour meets in front of the Pulitzer Fountain on 5th Avenue by 58th Street on Fridays, Saturdays, and Mondays at 10:30 AM, and Sundays at 3 PM. It lasts approximately 3 hours, and costs $33. Call Zerve at (212) 209-3370, or check www.sceneontv.com for tickets.

Another choice is The Sopranos tour, leaving from the "Button" in the Garment District on 7th Avenue by 39th Street, travelling to New Jersey for visits to locations shown in our other favorite of HBO's two biggest hits. Instead of over-or-under-sexed women, depending on how you look at it, you might catch a glimpse of some wannabe mobsters in gold chains and guinea tees, while touring spots like Bada Bing's strip-club, or Satriales, Tony's pork store hangout. On the weekend tours and most weekdays unless he's filming, there is a "meet and greet" with cast member Joe Gannascoli, who plays "Vito." The tour sprawls over 40 locations and lasts about four hours, and is regularly scheduled to start at 2 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. Tickets are $35. Call Zerve or check the website, and don't forget to buy your "I Did Jackie Junior" T-shirt.

SEX AND THE CITY

ing a one-night stand with any fan who feels Samantha is closest to her heart.

Aside from the aforementioned locations, the Sex and the City sightseeing tour passes through a plethora of televised hot spots: the Jimmy Choo boutique where Carrie buys her shoes, the sex shop where Charlotte shopped, the bakery where fans can eat a cupcake like Miranda, Steve and Aidan's bar, and the church where Samantha met "the Friar." There should be plenty of classic people-watching moments from the 35-stop-itinerary to tell your friends about, plus all the behind-the-

Happy New Year! 2004 looks like it will be a better year already with the warmer weather pattern in place...Better to shop, my dear!

I found one of the coolest gifts to give anyone on your gift list for 2004 that would appreciate vintage aprons from the fifties. American Hostess is a company owned by East Enders Linda Amato and John Barsoli. Linda has been collecting vintage aprons as a hobby and John has been in the fashion manufacturing business for 25 years. The ingredients were perfect for the venture... A great selection of these unique vintage reproductions of aprons from her personal collection is for sale at The Cottage, 536 Main Street, East Quogue...and hot off the press, Linda will be appearing on Metro TV's "Antique Show and Sell" on Thursday, January 15...Tune in and enjoy!

In Southampton on Jobs Lane at Clothes Minded you will be surprised to know that they are celebrating their twentieth anniversary. My how time does fly! In honor of this occasion, Clothes Minded is having a huge sale offering $20 and $40 racks and 50% off everything in the store every Saturday through January and the beginning of February. Happy Anniversary Clothes Minded...

Touche on Main Street in Southampton is having a "BIGGGG SALE" so that they can make room for the new spring/summer sportswear line. The sale sportswear starts from $25 and up with over 75% off lots of merchandise and most evening dresses and ball gowns start at $100 and $200 that originally sold for $2,000 to $3,000. Wow, now that is big...

Sunrise to Sunset has a "Storewide Holiday Sale" going on right now and you can save from 20% to 50% off all their merchandise. Yeah!

Look for 50% off at retail prices at LeSportsac on Pond Lane in Southampton. Stock up on their functional and stylish handbags, wallets, cosmetic cases and so much more.

On Montauk Highway in Southampton look for great deals at Patio.com's end of season "Blowout Sale." There is a tremendous selection of pool tables, patio furniture, pinball, gameroom furniture, ping pong, video arcade machines, foosball, air hockey, bars, spectator chairs, cue sticks and so much more. Get going while they last!

At English Country Antiques, Bridgehampton, Southampton and East Hampton, look for selected merchandise with sales marked down up to 70% off. These stores have a huge selection of quality pine and mahogany chairs, armoires, tables, mirrors, lighting, desks, sideboards, beds, china just to name a few.

I found a very good seamstress on Glover Street in Sag Harbor, Nancy's

Alterations...She does it all, and then some. I just had two dresses hemmed, along with three pantsuits and I am thinking of having some cushions made for my dining room chairs...Give her a call at 725-3427.

New year, new resolutions! One of my resolutions this year is to have a manicure and pedicure and my hair colored once a month at the Style Bar Day Spa on Bay Street in Sag Harbor. This full service day spa is definitely dedicated to the enhancement of your health and beauty...Out calls are their specialty, they bring spa services to your home, marina, boat, hotel, any day or evening. Parties are also welcomed here. And if you are looking for products, oh my, they have hundreds of high end and affordable products to choose from. Give a call for information and appointments at 725-6730.

Did you get everything you wanted for the holiday? If not, get down to Billy Martin's on Newtown Lane in East Hampton for their annual "After Christmas Sale" that is in full swing right now. The store is full of great stuff and the savings are incredible with slashed prices 20% to 50% off through the month of January. Shearling coats, silk skirts, velvet tops from Marikka Nakk, and if you love leather or suede fringed coats, they are now 30% off, soft fleecy robes along with shearling slippers are 50% off, boots, buckles and belts are 20% off. If you love great handcrafted silver buckles, authentic cowboy boots and a variety of trend-setting merchandise, new arrivals come in daily...Get going for the best of the best choices...

Hildreth's Department Stores in Southampton, Bridgehampton and East Hampton, is having their "Winter Clearance Sale" through February 10. During their clearance all items are marked down up to 60%. What a nice way to start the New Year, saving lots of moola....

Have fun shopping and enjoy all the winter sales that are presently going on.

Until next week. Ciao and Happy Winter Shopping!

If you know of, or are having any sales and would like to share them with me, or have any questions regarding the shops or sales, please email me at shoptil@danspapers.com or fax me at: 631-537-3330. I'd love to hear from you...

Illuminations by Barbara Jo Howard

A Bright Smile For The New Year

If eyes are the windows to the soul, then a smile is a beacon of one's inner light. Nothing is more radiant, provocative or compelling than a beautiful smile. It can lift a face in an instant, erasing years and portraying youth.

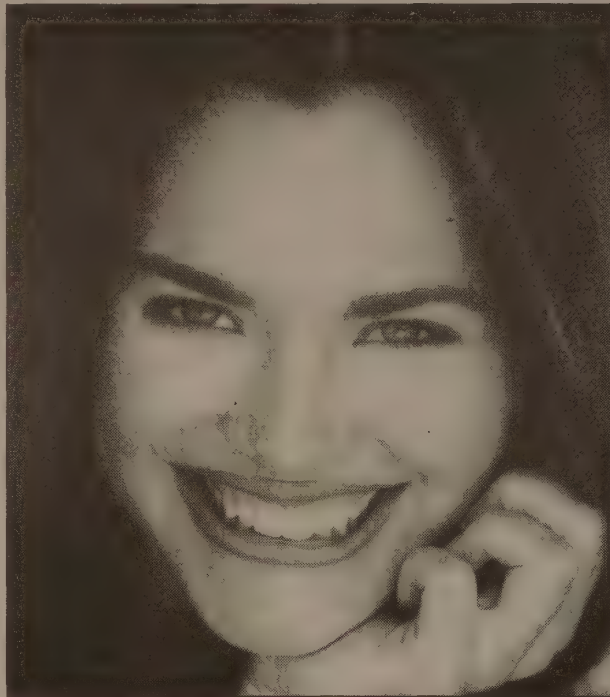

To learn more about how to achieve the perfect smile, I spoke with June O'Reilly, DDS in Amagansett, who devotes a portion of her practice to esthetic restorative dentistry. She has studied in Seattle, St. Petersburg and Chicago and is an advocate of Smile Design, which corrects the teeth to reveal a more youthful and pleasing appearance.

This system was introduced in the early 1970s by Dr. Richard Lombardi, a pioneer in cosmetic dentistry. He recognized the power of the smile to communicate distinct characteristics, such as aggression and gender traits.

"The two central incisors reveal a patient's age," explains Dr. O'Reilly. "There is a strategy for making a person's appearance younger by making those teeth slightly longer than the lateral incisors (the teeth on either side of the front ones) and improving overall color through lightening."

Essentially, "squatty" front teeth dramatically age the face. Over time we literally grind them down. The lateral incisors are gender teeth and via their shape can communicate feminine or masculine qualities. There should be no gaps between the front teeth and lateral incisors. The canines (on either side of the four front teeth) denote personality and can reveal a passive or aggressive persona. Gums should be a healthy pink color and not recess from the teeth which must have a natural incline and not be perfectly straight.

Dr. O'Reilly finds lightening to be a great way to get a great smile, but she cautions against bleaching the teeth "California white." The value should be natural not "toilet bowl white."

Having the perfect smile can take a bite out one's wallet. It is done through bonding, veneers and/or porcelain crowns, which can cost between $1-2,000.00 per tooth. However, you can work out a plan and do a few teeth at a time.

Finding the right specialist is important because the work must be esthetical as well as functional. Dr. O'Reilly recommends a consultation, "before and after pictures" of previous patients as well as references, and also inquiring about where and when the dentist last studied. There are so many new advances in cosmetic dentistry, including all types of porcelain, that being up to date on the latest innovations is necessary. For more insights into cosmetic dentistry, check out the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry site at aacd.com.

Remember, you want a customized smile that enhances your appearance, not a cookie cutter smile that looks like a picket fence. The end result should be a beautiful visual presentation that portrays a more youthful, vivacious you.

Now, as promised, here is my progress in the Gurney's New Year's Fitness and Nutrition Challenge with new Fitness Director, Candice Giordano-Monte. In an earlier interview, Candice guaranteed her program would deliver a "change in body fat while losing inches and weight in just six weeks" and I took her up on the bet. Week One we did two workouts focusing on interval training which keeps the heart rate in the fat burning range by switching between weights and cardio activity. I alternated between "pumping iron" and step aerobics. Candice worked me to a point where I would "max out" and then turn me on to something new. These workouts focused on chest and arms and left me feeling energized rather than fatigued and tired as I have with other trainers. Candice's tip for this session: When using weights, take time to set up. Mentally prepare what it is you are going to do and how you are going to do it. Make sure you are in alignment and don't rush, doing it right will result in better results and no injuries.

Candice told me to work out for 20 minutes for three days on the treadmill. I confess I only did it once that week and (gulp!) also indulged in couple of slices of my sister-in-law's famous Ricotta Cake. The good news is that I started the week before Christmas. The bad news is that I was surrounded by temptation. Will I continue with my resolution to get fit or will I cave into the holiday and let myself go? Find out next time...

Dr. Alexander Covey, Surgical and Medical Director of East End Laser Care, is pleased to introduce:

Thermage (ThermaLift)

Thermage is an exciting FDA approved non-invasive treatment that tightens tissue without surgery. This cosmetic procedure can safely improve the appearance of loose or sagging skin around the eye area (crow's feet), lower face (jowls), forehead and neck.

Thermage works with radio frequency energy that causes collagen to contract and tighten. No downtime or recuperation period is necessary so patients can resume their normal activities immediately.

Dr. Covey is one of the first specialists in Long Island to offer Thermage. Now for the first time many patients can experience cosmetic improvement previously available only with invasive procedures.

HOMEGROWN WITH BRIAN HALWEIL

*Note: This article is the first in a series of interviews with Richard Hendrickson, a local farmer, historian, and weatherman, about how families spent winters on the East End in the early part of the 20th century. Hendrickson, 91, chronicled the East End's meteorological history in Winds of the Fish's Tail.*

Part 1: How We Existed Here Before World War One

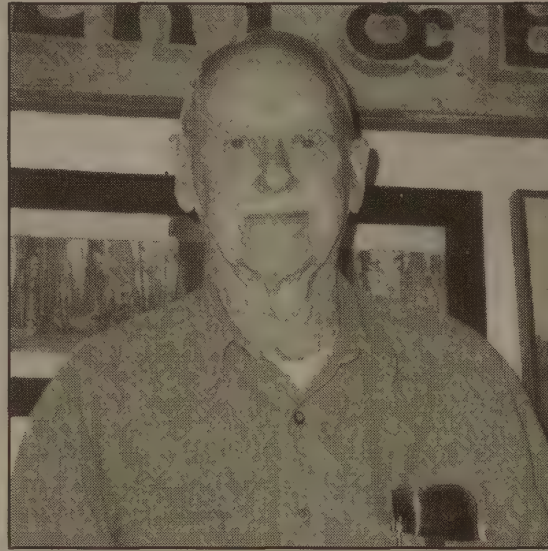

Wearing a blue plaid flannel shirt, khaki pants, wool socks, and moccasins, Richard Hendrickson reclines in a golden rocking chair that has provided comfort to three generations of expectant mothers in his family. His big, brass belt buckle shows a cowboy on a horse and reads "Smith and Wesson," a reminder of Hendrickson's interest in antique firearms. Lately, he's feeling the pains of age deep in his back, but he is remarkably fit and active for 91. A teakettle whistles in the background for a while before either he or his wife tends to it.

"World War One or before, how we existed here," Hendrickson starts in his steady, sing-songy voice as if he were exchanging tales around the cracker barrel. "Before telephone and radio and refrigerator.

"Eastern Long Island in the turn of the last century, 1900 up to the early 20s, was mainly agricultural, and, in the summer time, our summer visitors. They started coming out here shortly after the Civil War, and staying with a farm family, and were taken to the beach or came out later to go hunting. And that's what it was."

Hendrickson estimates that before World War II, between Amagansett and the Shinnecock Canal, there were 73 potato farms, 38 poultry farms, and 17 dairies. Today, there are 6 potato farms, 2 poultry farms, and one farm that keeps two cows for making cheese. "We've gone from woodland, easily available at $10 to $15 per acre, to the priceless oceanfront property of today," he notes.

Most of the families were self-supporting for the essentials of living. They did buy flour. They did buy raisins. I didn't say grapes. I did say raisins. And several very plain cookies. And with this there was the sugar. And these were staples that most families used.

"Because all the farms, whether they were small or large, had a cow or two. Therefore they had their milk. They had their cream and their pot cheese. Well, they don't use that word pot cheese. They call it cottage cheese today."

Hendrickson notes that the family cow didn't just produce for the kitchen. The whey that wasn't fed to the pigs could be mixed with bunker oil – a common byproduct of bunker fishing – and Venetian red dirt, to make red barn paint.

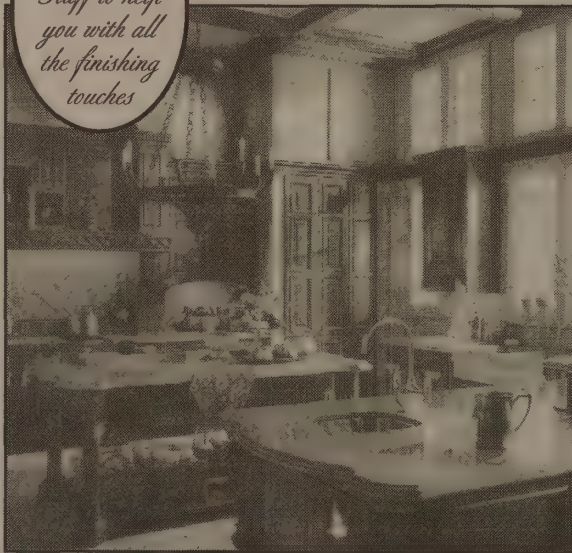

"And all the table scraps and so forth went out to the pigs in the pig pen. Today they call it an automatic disposal area. So pigs were fattened and in the fall they were butchered. And therefore you had your ham and your bacon, and you had your pork chops and your fat for lard. And therefore you made your own lard for cooking for pie crusts, for making crullers. And it was a way of life, in which the family raised just about everything."

The other four-legged farm animal was the oxen. "Altered male calves," Hendrickson remembers, "grew into the strong, steady bulldozers of the past. They were gentle and dependable, the best for stump-pulling, plowing, and moving a building.

"Everyone had a good-sized garden. In the winter, you buried your turnips. You go down in your root cellar, which is what most houses had. They never had a large cellar like we build today, with a game-room. It was brick or fieldstone, some of it was imported from Connecticut, and that was the foundation of your home. Lots of time, the cellars were very small. Only 8 or ten feet square. But down there you buried your potatoes, your turnips, your cabbage, and your winter crop of vegetables. Of the fall crops, the cauliflower never lasted too long, but brussel sprouts did and turnips did."

The Garden At Rock Cottage by Lance Brilliantine

Native With African Violets

When we saw some of the new varieties of African violets, with a wide range of colors, and with blooms as large as 3 inches across, we became interested. While we are not enthusiasts, we enjoy growing a few.

There are more than 30,000 varieties of African violet. Colors include blue, lavender, pink, violet variations, and white. Flowers may be single, double, star-shaped, fringed, or ruffled. Leaves can be plain, ruffled, fringed, scalloped, pointed, or variegated. Some of the interesting varieties include: "Strike Me Pink," with rose-like blossoms and cupped leaves; "Double Pink," a dark pink with oval leaves; "Fringed Snow Prince," with light-green leaves and white blooms; and "Blue Pom," a deep blue with pale-green leaves. East Hampton Gardens, located at Four Gingerbread Lane, has a continuous supply throughout the year.

At first, we struggled with growing violets. Our research, and some trial-and-error, has shown the plants require some "native" intuitiveness, and adherence to rules for potting, lighting, temperature, watering, humidity, and fertilizing.

Plastic pots work best with African violets. Terracotta pots tend to rot leaves that touch the pot. Violets benefit from being root bound so a three-inch pot works for most plants. Fill pots with loose, friable soil consisting of a mixture of a third each of garden soil, sand, and peat moss. Add a teaspoonful of bone meal to each quart of soil mix. Moisten the mixture before use.

Place a few pebbles over a pot's drainage hole, followed by a small wad of sphagnum moss. Then, fill the pot with the soil mix and place the plant so the crown is about a half inch below the rim of the pot. Plant loosely because African violets roots are delicate.

Proper heat, water, and humidity are required. House temperatures need to be about 70 degrees during the day and 65 degrees at night. Plants won't do well in houses over-wintered at 55 degrees. Water violets from the bottom up using saucers filled with tepid or room temperature water. Pour enough water into a saucer to permit the plant to "drink" for about twenty minutes; then pour off excess. Be careful not to wet leaves, as this may spot them, especially if the water is cold.

Letting the plants yearn for water seems to stimulate growth and blooms. But don't let plants dry out completely. Complete drying renders the root hairs incapable of absorbing water and causes a setback. Use well water, rain water, or bottled water - never chlorinated water. If the house has low humidity, place pans of water near a radiator or grow the plants in a kitchen window where they will benefit from the humidity resulting from cooking.

Because the plants are succulent, too much light will burn the leaves; too little light will stunt growth and reduces flowering. When the light is right, the violets will bloom profusely for about nine months of the year and rest for about three months. An east-facing window from September to March and a north-facing window from April to August work well. Picking off dying flowers keeps plants blooming, as dead flowers prevent new flowers from forming properly.

We fertilize our African violets infrequently. On the odd occasion when we feed the plants (once every four or five months), we select a clear, bright day and feed several hours after watering, using an organic plant food. Fertilize on the top of the soil.

You can divide plants in spring or summer. To divide, cut a few leaves from the plant center. Trim the leaf stalk to about two inches in length and insert in water through a hole in a glass covered with aluminum foil. Keep in a warm location, changing water to keep it fresh. In about three months the leaves will sprout and begin a new plant that can be potted.

While we may never be African violet enthusiasts, we recognize their native appeal, and are challenged about growing them well. It is worth the adventure!

ART COMMENTARY By Marion Wolberg Weiss

LOOKING BACK: THE 2003 HAMPTONS' ART SCENE

As much as yours truly hates "Ten Best Lists of 2003," a critic should be accountable for his/her choices and comments. Readers and the art community alike have the right to know what criteria and context were used in judging particular exhibits or artists.

With the risk of sounding presumptuous or just "dead wrong," here are this critic's personal "rules" concerning what gets critiqued and how. Simply put, determination is driven by quality, consensus, subjective likes/dislikes, and the art's potential to generate insight.

One other salient criteria: hierarchy. Museum shows always get critiqued, followed by new work by internationally-known artists, followed by established regional artists. Everything else is up for grabs, except any critic worth his/her salt should also cover quality "emerging" artists as well.

Thus, choices are based on the art/ artists, not the venue presenting the works.

In the forthcoming year's schedule, another consideration is employed: art that is thematically – based and/or delineates a "state-of-the-art" concern. (These are usually configured as a series.)

Our local museums, while having different missions, are worthy of our support and respect. Also included are institutions that are not museums per se, but are non-profit, with no work for sale.

Guild Hall's Member Show is a valued tradition. This year, a mix of local group shows with a provocative theme ("The Ambiguous Toy") and internationally-oriented shows (curated by MOMA) provided diversity. The Parrish's presentations were equally varied, focusing on particular media (drawing) and artistic movements (The Harlem Studio Museum). Ray Johnson's art at the Pollock-Krasner House was even more focused and edgy. The Avram Gallery featured both local and New York artists, with an emphasis on materials.

Next we featured internationally-known artists showing new or retrospective work with ties (however indirect) to the Hamptons: Hans Van de Bovenkamp at the Meisel Gallery; Robert Richtenburg at David Findlay; Mathew Barney at the Guggenheim; Diller/Scofido at the Whitney. (The latter two exhibits were given special recognition by AICA, the international art critics' association as well.)

Next, both established and emerging regional/local artists were critiqued, such as arresting one-person exhibits by Peabody and Foss (Clark Fine Art, Lerri and Church (The Crazy Monkey), Bally and Leiber (Arlene Bujese), Tarr (Depot Gallery), Sutter (Merz) and Wharton / Delaponte (Sara Nightingale).

Group shows were commendable, too, including those at Tulla Booth ("Interiors") and Lizan Tops (with Shields and Fox, among others).

Similar displays were explored at alternative art spaces: Glenn Horowitz Bookseller, Rogers Memorial Library and 75 Main Street Restaurant.

Regarding theme-related shows, of special interest were outstanding ethnic works at the Shinnecock Nation Museum, Solar, Native Accents and Dragon Gallery. State-of-the-art issues were devoted to arts-in-education (the Ross School) and relating the visual arts to movies (The Hamptons International Film Festival) and to TV coverage of the Iraqi War. The latter examples seemed going far afield, but we liked the challenge.

Speaking of challenges, last year presented plenty. But that's what makes an art critic's profession so worthwhile.

In Memorium: Ibram Lassaw

East Hampton resident and leading Abstract Expressionist Ibram Lassaw passed away on December 30, 2003 at the age of ninety. We asked his family, friends, colleagues and critics how they would describe Mr. Lassaw's work; what his art has meant to them and the art world. Here are their spontaneous responses.

"Amazing."

"Genius."

"Exciting and adventurous"

"Stunningly simple and eloquently elegant"

"No one did what he did. He never planned anything but created as he went along."

"He was sensitive to materials and depth of expression."

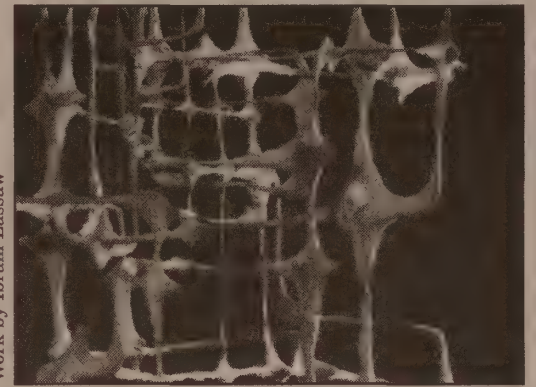

"He stayed with the aesthetic issues of Abstract Expressionism all these years, creating in new and different ways."

"His work is frozen meditation."

"His work will live on."

So will Ibram Lassaw, the man.

Guy de Fraumeni's Hollywood in The Hamptons

When judging movies at year's end, the Good, the Bad and the Ugly comes to mind, attacking the grey matter like a starved panther. It's not the well-known Spaghetti Western that leaps at me but, rather, the mangled variety of Eastern Meat and Potato films being dished out higgledy-piggledy, making it seem like we're consuming them at a trough. Excellently made films come at a price. Not just the big budgets – but, encumbrances that hold them down to a Good rating. The magnificently produced and directed Lord of the Rings trilogy appears best appreciated if one is twelve or younger. Tolkien's voice is admirably displayed but its spectacular displays muffle the relevance to our real world. Hey, this is still the holiday season. That was an awful prestige clawing thing to say about a sure "classic." While Cold Mountain has thawed out and is heating up award competitions, I'll get off the backs of huge budgets and try to be fairer to say that it is the fairer sex who is enjoying personal coups and signaling worthy films: Sofia Coppola looms large in the award games for her ultra-fine direction and writing of Lost in Translation and her co-star in the film, Scarlett Johansson, has gotten two Golden Globe nominations for best actress – the other is for Girl With a Pearl Earring. Allow me to tout again Diane Keaton's rowdy performance in Something's Gotta Give. However, the fair sex is not always treated fairly. Take Fristance:

Women aren't given a fair shake in Mona Lisa Smile. In this Shake 'N' Bake movie we are fed a

Mona Lisa Smile and Calendar Girls

Nutra-Sweetened fortified batch of 1950s Wellesley College cookies who are encouraged to be female self-empowered while continuing to yearn for Mr. Right. The movie has young women baking as well as shaking their booties but, unfortunately, the upscale, rich young cookies are laid out appetizingly waiting to be eaten, in spite of the ever-charming Julia Roberts brazenly swinging her Erin Brockovich – art history slide projector over their heads. She even throws, or we should say splatters, a Jackson Pollack canvas at them. In a rather clever way she attempts to teach the bright young things awareness with her art history slides. The brightness then flickers under the dullness of a screenplay done in cookie cutter fashion or, as Ms. Roberts' unmitigated teacher would put it, painting-by-number Art. The outline is flatly "School Girls Going Senior" with Ms. Roberts in her "Prime of –." The young stars, Kirsten Dunst, Julia Stiles and Maggie Gyllenhaal play so well against each other as different types; they easily cozy you into the warm Betty Crocker, overbaked, walnut loaf of stock character mix. Example ingredients: you've got your fussiest elocution teacher and weeper; you've got your lesbian nurse, you've got the stiff as a thrice starched lace collar President, the Don Juan Italian instructor of Amore and the house wall-flower, who's picked on. Mostly there's Julia Roberts who's always fresh as a daisy while trying to break the Daisy Chain.

Then, there's Calendar Girls, another group of lovelies. A ripe bunch of matronly British women headed up by Helen Mirren, whose lengthy list of outstanding performances tends to be hidden by her memorable Inspector Detective role on television. That same "brass" has her bravely posing nude for a theme calendar for charity. She organizes others to strip down to nothing except props for baking, gardening, etc. You might think of it as a Full Monty of the opposite sex with the accent on Full.

The jokey-double entendres for the "theme" photos are outstanding and shamelessly tasteless and the film only becomes funny when the girls become internationally famous. As a British film you know it is professional but I tend to think this was meant for export. Here in the U.S. of A. we tend to be titillated by female nudity. In Britain quite a few leading newspapers include nudes daily. If titillation is your cup of tea, go for it 'cause these girls serve it up in large queen size E cups.

To My Valued Customers and Friends,

Designing unique pieces of jewelry for your weddings and special occasions has been my passion for 20 years. Five years after opening my flagship store in Manhattan, I opened my Southampton location, which is where our relationship began. Designing for you, my special friends, has been a blessing and a source of great joy in my life. However maintaining and operating stores on different ends of New York has become a challenge. In an effort to simplify my life, I have made the difficult decision to close the Southampton location on January 1st, 2004 and will focus all my attention on the Manhattan "Gallery Eclectic." I look forward to our continued relationship on Greenwich Avenue, New York City, or visit me online at www.galleryeclectic.com theatre review: the violet hour... by gordin & christiano

Lynne Meadows' Manhattan Theatre Club has spent a truck load of money restoring Broadway's Biltmore Theatre, which has been dark since 1987. Indeed, it is a stylishly contemporary recreation of the presidium theatre with a foot in the past, but his lacking imagination or having any daring vision for the future of theatre. M.T.C has reopened the theatre with the New York premiere of Richard Greenberg's new play, The Violet Hour, and it too, unfortunately, is a bit of a disappointment. Like the refurbishing of the theatre, it is an opportunity ripe with unfilled potential. The play might have fared better at one the club's more modest City Center theatres, where it could have possibly avoided the expectations of Broadway's theatrical community and the scrutiny of the critics. The reviews at best were decidedly ho hum and the word of mouth not much better. This was most surprising since the play recently received some glowing notices in Chicago for Terry Kinney's staging for the Steppenwolf Theatre Company.

Mr. Greenberg is currently represented on Broadway with Take Me Out, the Tony Award winning play which transferred to the Walter Kerr from The Public Theatre last year, via London. He is one of the most talented playwrights working on the scene today and his new play, a whimsical period piece set in 1919 New York City, is definitely thought provoking and original. The story is about a young publisher, John Pace Seaverling (Robert Sean Leonard) at the start of his career, who is challenged with limited finances and a difficult dilemma. He must choose between publishing the memoirs of his begins printing pages from books published in the future, as far as 90 years into the future, allowing Seaverling to learn what might possibly happen to himself and his friends. Does the mysterious machine actually forecast the future? Can Seaverling alter that future? What will he do? Fasten your seat belts, you are about to find out.

The play is tricky and difficult to define, requiring thoughtful, careful casting. Not only that, the actors must have a sense of the period in which the play is set, so when the future is thrust upon them, there is a sense of them losing their gracefulness. Robert Sean Leonard as the young publisher is the lone member of the ensemble who seems well cast and the only member to deliver a credible performance worthy of the text. Mario Cantone is a talented comedian, but he turns Gidger into a screaming queen, playing him as if he were still doing stand-up. Mr. Cantone is clueless to the struggle or sacrifice that a Gidger of this era would undergo, and the result is an embarrassment which throws off the play's balance.

The evening unfortunately suffers from the clumsy direction of Evan Yionoulis, which lacks coherence, leaving the actors, for the most part, lost in the dark, diminishing the uniqueness of the author's voice, and rendering the play elusive, at best. If the director has lost her way, the design team, however, has not. The set by Christopher Barreca is beautifully detailed and the costumes by Jane Greenwood are wonderful in evoking the period as well. Design aside Mr. Greenberg's play is a rich chapter in the playwright's evolution, worthy of a more imaginative nuanced rendering.

The Violet Hour is now playing at Broadway's Biltmore Theatre, 261 West 47th Street. For ticket information: 212-239-6200 secret mistress, chanteuse Jessie Brewster (Robin Miles) or the rambling over ripe novel called The Violet Hours of his college chum Denis McCleary (Scott Foley). To complicate matters, Denis wants to marry his girlfriend, Rosamund Plinth (Dagmara Dominczyk) whose father will not deem him a success and allow the marriage unless Seaverling publishes his novel. They have vowed to jump from the Plaza Hotel if he does not consent to their wishes.

The characters are reminiscent of Jazz Age author F. Scott Fitzgerald his wife Zelda, and his publisher Maxwell Perkins. Jessie Brewster brings to mind Josephine Baker. Gidger, Seaverling's gay assistant, is campily played for comic relief by Mario Cantone. He is the fifth character, and he is the one who discovers the arrival of a mysterious machine that Root vegetables like carrots, parsnips, turnips and rutabagas, still at their peak at this time of the year, make perfect candidates for winter dishes. I love them in soup abundant with vegetables, which can be a meal in itself, and when oven-roasted they release their rich sweet flavors and aromas.

Winter root vegetable soup is almost akin to having your own root cellar. Gather together a variety of root vegetables along with winter squash, leek and onions and you have soup to enjoy over several days, or freeze in suitable portions to enjoy over the chilly wintry month of January. Trimming and cutting the vegetables may take some time but the end result is worth it and preparation is pretty much left to a timer.

The gnarled, unattractive celery knob (or celeriac) may be familiar to some cooks as the ubiquitous celeri remoulade, a delicious julienne when dressed with a tangy mustard mayonnaise. Here I add it to a selection of roasted root vegetables; the assertive celery knob flavor is tamed by the sweetness of the other ingredients.

In addition to their natural sweetness, root vegetables like carrots and parsnips are high in nutrients, dietary fiber and a range of cancer-fighting substances called phytochemicals. Choose root vegetables that are smooth and firm, with bright color. Refrigerate in a plastic bag in a vegetable drawer and store up to 2 - 4 weeks, depending on the vegetable

ROASTED ROOT VEGETABLES

Turnips, celery knob, parsnip and carrots make a deliciously colorful arrangement.

When the garlic is cooked, the clove, squeezed from its skin, is pleasantly sweet.

Serves 8-10

- 2 white turnips
- 3 parsnips
- 1 bunch carrots
- 1 celery knob
- Several whole garlic cloves, unpeeled
- 1/2 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 2-3 teaspoons coarse (kosher) salt
- Freshly ground pepper
- 2 tablespoons fresh thyme leaves
- Preheat oven to 425 degrees

1. Peel and trim the vegetables and cut them into chunky pieces of equal size. All the vegetables except the celery knob can be peeled with a vegetable peeler. To remove the gnarled skin of the celery knob, cut with a sharp knife.

2. Spread the vegetables in a heavy roasting pan. Toss in the garlic cloves, olive oil, salt, pepper and thyme and toss again to coat the vegetables.

3. Cover vegetables with foil, shiny side down and place in preheated oven. Roast covered for 25 minutes. Remove foil and continue roasting for 20-25 minutes longer until vegetables are tender and crusty. Serve warm or at room temperature.

To Prepare Ahead: Follow steps 1 and 2 up to sev-

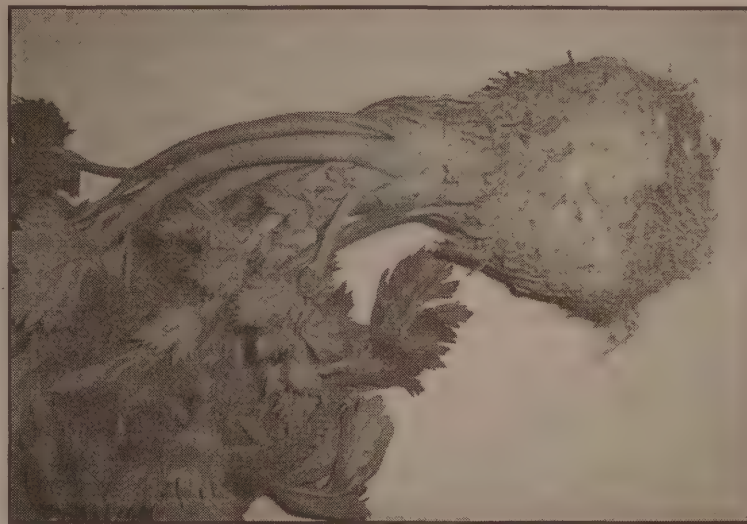

- 2 onions, finely chopped
- 1 large leek, trimmed, well washed and thinly sliced
- 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- 1 pie pumpkin or small butternut squash, about 2 cups cubed flesh

- 3-4 carrots, peeled, sliced and diced
- 1 large rutabaga, peeled, sliced and diced
- 2 parsnips, peeled, sliced and diced
- 1 cup dry white wine, preferably Long Island Chardonnay
- 7 cups chicken stock, preferably homemade
- 1 tablespoon coarse (kosher) salt
- Freshly ground pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
- 1 1/2 - 2 tablespoons fresh thyme leaves
- Fresh croutons for garnish, optional

1. Place oil in a large soup pot and heat. Put in the prepared vegetables and stir to coat in the oil. Place a square of waxed paper on top of the vegetables and reduce the heat to low. Cover the pot and "sweat" the vegetables for 7-8 minutes. Remove and discard waxed paper. Add the wine and bring to a boil. Eyeball the liquid to reduce by half. Pour in the broth and season the soup with salt, lots of freshly ground pepper, thyme and nutmeg.

2. Simmer the soup, with a lazy surface bubble, for 30-35 minutes until vegetables are tender. Taste for seasonings and serve hot with optional croutons. Soup can be prepared ahead and will stay fresh in refrigerator for several days. Or freeze in suitable portions.

eral hours ahead. Complete step 3 before serving.

WINTER ROOT VEGETABLE SOUP

The abundance of root vegetables makes this soup perfect for chilly winter days. This inspired restaurant recipe calls for pureeing the soup.

At home we prefer to keep the diced vegetables intact. If using low sodium-low fat broth, the salt content is still very obvious.

Proper homemade stocks are never made with salt.

Wednesday through Sunday from 4 to 6 PM serving delicious half price drinks. Call 726-5321 for further information.

Celebrated actress Alfre Woodard recently dined at The Plaza Café. Woodard, whose credits include K-Pax, Crooklyn and various TV appearances such as St. Elsewhere, LA Law and The Practice, had dinner two nights in a row at the elegant Southampton eatery. She dined on pumpkin lobster bisque and sautéed Black sea bass, then finished her meal with a cappuccino. Woodard even took time to take pictures with fans, one of which was Plaza Café Chef, Doug Gulija.

Open Thursday through Monday for lunch and dinner, Se7en Restaurant Bar & Grill (288-7727) has specials offered nightly. Crazy drink specials are also available every night, during their 3 to 8 PM happy hour. Planning a party? Call to find out about their private catering hall.

Winter is the perfect time to indulge in Sunday brunch. Mary Jane's offers Sunday brunch from 11 a.m. to 2 PM An a la carte menu featuring selections such as poached eggs with crab hash, grilled chicken frittata, chicken enchilada or Grand Marnier French toast. A kid's menu is also available. Call 324-8008 for more info.

Bobby Van's has some affordable winter specials. They're offering a three-course prix fixe for $25 Sunday through Friday nights all night. As well on those same nights they offer an $18 steak and fries special. Tuesday night is lobster night, with a lobster dinner for $21. Call 537-0590 for more info.

Hamptons Restaurant Week, slated for March 28th - April 4th, is quickly gaining more participants. Police Blotter

Santa has come and gone, followed by 2003, but some Suffolk County residents are already ignoring the threat of being placed on 2004's "Naughty List" and, apparently, giving up their New Year's resolutions of staying out of trouble and being good little citizens.

Two incidents in Flanders have set local businesses off on the wrong foot. On December 30, a man visited the 99¢ store on Flanders Road to "pick up" a few things for himself. The trouble started when he only decided to pay for some of them. The owner of the store saw the man place a jar of hair cream into his pocket while shopping around. When the man was confronted at the check-out, a verbal altercation began which continued out the front door and into the parking lot where the store owner was punched in the face. The hair cream thief then got into his car and started to leave at which time the store owner stood in front of him hoping to stop him. Unfortunately, the car kept going, striking the man and flipping him into the air. Police caught the man who, it turns out, had been released from jail 20 days earlier, on parole for a previous drug conviction. According to police, he'll be doing his 'do from behind bars until he can meet a $5,000 bail. The store owner suffered minor injuries to his face and back which were treated at Central Suffolk Hospital.

* * *

A second robbery was reported on New Year's Eve by two deli clerks who were held up at gun point. The two called police at about 10 p.m. and told them that a man wearing all dark clothing and a dark colored ski cap had just robbed the store with a small, black, automatic hand gun and fled west on Flanders Road. Police say he made off with about $250 and that there were no other known witnesses, as the deli was empty of customers at the time of the robbery. After an extensive search of the area with Police K-9 units, the man is still at large. Anyone with information regarding this incident is urged to contact police.

East Hampton Town Police arrested a man last week who was in violation of his parole. Attempting to serve a warrant for his arrest, officers pulled the man over while he was driving a car through East Hampton. During the course of the arrest, officers discovered that the man hadn't been given permission by the vehicle's owner to drive the car. His previous charges of criminal possession of stolen property are now accompanied by additional charges of first degree, unauthorized use of a vehicle.

* * *

Tragedy struck in East Hampton last Wednesday when a real estate sign was knocked over. The owner of the sign, an Elybrook/ Hands Creek Road resident, reported the incident last Friday, telling police that leaves had been piled in his driveway in an apparent attempt to cover up any mischief. The sign will cost $50 to repair.

* * *

A Montauk man called police on Friday after an attempted round of Duck, Duck, Goose. The 28-year-old Montauk Highway resident told police that someone had stolen his bag of goose and duck decoys which were well-hidden in a blind he had set up off Old West Lake Drive. The decoys will cost about $400 to replace.

ALLOW ME TO INTRODUCE MYSELF Dear Dan,

Just a cousin who wanted to say hello as you can see by the last name. My mom and dad are Lenny and Estelle from Brooklyn. I live in Freeport. Sometime in the not too distant future, maybe I'll pass by and introduce myself.

Til then, your cousin.

Steven Rattiner
Via e-mail

LIFT YOUR FORK Dear Dan,

I thoroughly enjoy your coverage of the Shinnecock plight. I just started viewing your reviews of dining on the North Fork. Although I have no clue whatsoever what some of the dishes are, my wife and I may have to take the ferry over and try some of these places.

Keep up the good hometown feel.

L. Barry
Via e-mail

PS- if you have any more information on the Shinnecock, I would love to have you send it to my email. Thanks.

LOFTY READING Dear Dan,

In the main drawing room of the University Club that stretches the full one half block width of the building sit two tables – mammoth tables. One carries the day's daily papers, and at the other end of the room on the mammoth tables has magazines – The Economist, New York Times, Newsweek, etc. And there too I was delighted to see for the first time in my memory, a copy of Dan's Papers.

The surprise derives from the stuffiness of this club no where better exemplified then in this huge room with its armchairs looking out on Fifth Avenue, and its twenty foot, ornate gilded ceiling.

You've arrived! Though I'm not sure where.

Peter Wood
New York City

CHILDHOOD MEMORIES Dear Dan,

I received an article from my mother's (Ma Bergman) best friend Alice Cooley. The article was about the Bridgehampton Bank that is now a Starbucks!

In the article you mentioned M a Bergman's and her teenage daughter. That daughter was either me or my sister and the kind words you wrote about our mother were appreciated. She passed away in March of last year and it was hard at the end. The good memories are starting to return and your article was such a gift to my sister and me.

Thank you. Growing up in a restaurant was definitely not easy and I had wished we had a "normal" life. But looking back you wouldn't have known my mom if she had had a "normal" life. She made an impact on life in East Hampton whether it was the Jewish Center of the Hamptons or just a meal for a celebrity. We were taught to respect their privacy so they could have a "normal" meal in peace. It really tickles me that our old restaurant is such a big hangout for these celebrities.

Thanks for the memories!

EAST HAMPTON

Welcome to the Neighborhood. And a very good neighborhood it is. It's a great family friendly neighborhood situated in walking distance to some of East Hampton's most historic landmarks as well as to a gorgeous body of water, horse farms, and a real general store. It's a neighborhood of newer, well constructed homes on at least an acre of property. This one, in particular, also backs up to a large reserve. The lovely traditional house has a living room with a unique 3 sided fireplace, a dining area and kitchen, plus 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. It is centrally air conditioned with full basement and pool in the backyard. It has a great rental history, and is now available for sale. Exclusive. $695,000.
